

I think that it repealing the ban on cross media ownership would be a great disservice to the citizens of the US. Already consolidation in the media industry has led to a loss in the number independent media be it newspapers, radios or television stations. Countless incidences have come to light where corporate owners have dictated the content of their media outlets. This is particularly disturbing in the news media and highlights the need for less not more corporate consolidation of media outlets. I urge you not to repeal the ban on cross-ownership.

Sincerely,

Carol Van Hulle
